SCID Boss Hailed As Tactical Strategist, Intelligence Architect and Frontline Crime Buster Transforming Policing in Lagos

Felix Mbata, Lagos State

At the headquarters of the State Criminal Investigation Department, SCID Panti, Yaba, history was made as Bishop Dr. Chidi Anthony Chidi – General Overseer, King in Christ International Ministries, President Pentecostal Ministers Forum (PMF) and National President, Christian Police Fellowship of Nigeria, Stakeholders Forum – decorated DCP Dayo Akinbisehin with an Award of Excellence in Crime Fighting and Public Safety.

The honour was not ceremonial. It was a direct response to results on the ground.

Since assuming command at Panti, DCP Akinbisehin has re-engineered SCID into Lagos' elite anti-crime taskforce – leading precision raids, intelligence-driven operations, forensic investigations, and the systematic dismantling of organized criminal enterprises. From armed robbery gangs to kidnapping cells, internet fraud cartels and violent syndicates, his team has delivered high-impact arrests, major recoveries, and landmark prosecutions.

"We are here to honour a master crime buster," Bishop Chidi stated. "An operational commander

“PASTOR NICK MEDO-UWA, GOD'S GENERAL WITH EVIDENCE”, BAGS POLICE CHAPLAINCY AWARD AS PCM MEMBERS GATHER FOR 2026 MID-YEAR THANKSGIVING

‘Obedience and Gratitude Bring Victory’ – Pastor Medo-Uwa Charges Congregation

[illegible]

Pentecostal Canaanland Mission, PCM was filled with praise and gratitude on Sunday, 5th July 2026 as the church held its 2026 Mid-Year Thanksgiving Service at the headquarters, 26/28 Adewunmi Abudu Street, Off [illegible] Way, Ajao Estate, Lagos.

The thanksgiving, held in obedience to a divine instruction given to Pastor Nick Medo-Uwa in 2005, marked over two decades of God's faithfulness through PCM – a ministry renowned for lives transformation, deliverance, and the preaching of undiluted word of God across the globe.

The celebration came on the heels of a major honour as Pastor Nick Medo-Uwa was recognised by the Lagos State Police Chaplaincy on 28th June 2026 for his outstanding humanitarian work and commitment to the work of Chaplaincy and humanity.

THE HONOUR

Presenting the award at the PCM auditorium, Command Chaplain CSP Ezekiel [illegible] described Pastor Medo-Uwa as “a great man of God that has great passion for the things of God and humanity. He has made remarkable commitment to foster the work of Chaplaincy in the state and humanity.

Based on his sincerity and focus, we came to confer this award on him to encourage him to continue his good work. God's presence is in PCM.

Pastor Nick Medo-Uwa is a real man of God with great evidence.”

In his response, Pastor Medo-Uwa appreciated the honour and reaffirmed his commitment to continue in God's assignment. “I enjoy doing what I am doing because I feel fulfilled obeying God's commandment,” he said.

This adds to the Appreciation Award he received in April 2025 from the Christian Police Fellowship of Nigeria, Lagos State Chapter for his contributions to the Fellowship and Christendom.

MID-YEAR THANKSGIVING: A NIGHT OF TESTIMONIES

The service began with a Friday night vigil where members dressed in white to render life-touching testimonies of God's faithfulness.

Testimonies were recorded from people with various issues who came to testify of how God turned their situations around through PCM. The atmosphere was charged with thanksgiving as old and new members gathered to celebrate the goodness of God over the mission in the last 20-years.

THE WORD: GRATITUDE AND OBEDIENCE
Ministering from Nehemiah 12:43, Pastor Nkit Medo-Uwa declared: "I am limited but God is unlimited. We are here to thank God for what He has done and are still doing.

God is the director of our script. When you love God with your heart and spirit and obey Him, your journey becomes smooth.

God said I am a jealous lover — I must be number one in your life. There is victory in obedience. When grace finds a man, that person must be grateful."

CONCLUSION
The 2025 Mid-Year Thanksgiving was a clear demonstration that God is still moving mightily through Pentecostal Concordant Mission.

For Pastor Nkit Medo-Uwa, the honours from the Police Chaplaincy and Christian Police Fellowship confirm that service to God and humanity attracts divine recognition.

PCM two decades of impact have produced one undeniable result: lives are being transformed, and God's presence is evident.

As the congregation rejoiced, the message remained constant — Love God, Obey God, and Be Grateful. For in gratitude and obedience lies victory.

PCM — A Place of Encounter. A Church of Transformation.

have witnessed increased unity, spiritual growth, stronger leadership structures, and continued expansion of the ministry, including the remarkable growth of our Ijanikin branch and other branches across Nigeria. This reinforces my conviction that when leadership is rooted in God's wisdom and genuine service, positive transformation follows."

CONCLUSION: A PRAYER FOR THE NEXT PHASE

As the Lagos State Police Command Chaplaincy charts the future, Prof. Akpan's heart is in prayer:

"My prayer is that God Almighty will continue to grant wisdom, strength, divine protection, and uncommon grace to CSP Ven. Ezekiel Ugbotor and all the leadership of the Lagos State Police Command. I pray that the Chaplaincy will continue to grow in spiritual impact, unity, professionalism, and national relevance. May it become a model for other Police Commands across Nigeria, promoting peace, justice, integrity, and the fear of God.

I also pray that every police officer will be strengthened in service, protected in the line of duty, and blessed together with their families. My expectation is to see a Chaplaincy that continues to transform lives, strengthen communities, build bridges between the Police and the public, and glorify God through faithful service. With committed leadership, dedicated chaplains, and God's grace, the future of the Lagos State Police Command Chaplaincy is bright and full of greater accomplishments."

In a time when the nation needs both security and soul-care, the Lagos Police Chaplaincy — under God and under visionary leadership — is proving that faith and duty can indeed walk together in uniform.

"What drew him to this ministry? "The burden God placed in my heart to minister to men and women who daily put their lives on the line for the safety of our nation," he explains. "The Police Chaplaincy provides a unique opportunity to bring hope where there is pressure, encouragement where there is discouragement, and spiritual strength where there are daily challenges."

counselling, building chapels in various divisions and stations, organising revival meetings and crusades that are helping to keep the nation and our states in peace.

CEW: You also featured at the unveiling of the Security Post of Orile Division by PCRC and Apapa Iganmu LCDA. How significant is this project?
Apostle Unachukwu: The PCRC is really trying. They partnered with the Chairman of Apapa Iganmu LCDA to construct the security post and organise the unveiling. God bless them.

It is very significant because it will aid orderliness in the inflow and outflow of movement in the station. It is a milestone achievement and a very welcome idea.

CEW: What role should the church play in supporting government and community efforts to secure our neighborhoods?
Apostle Unachukwu: The church is doing well – spiritually, physically, morally and financially. Churches have been donating vehicles to security agencies, building structures and boreholes, and organising crusades and outreaches to preach salvation and peace.

CEW: How can pastors help bridge the gap between the police and the community?
Apostle Unachukwu: Pastors and the Police Chaplaincy are doing their best. Things are changing. Unlike before when people didn't want anything to do with police, today in Orile where I serve, the reverse is the case. The police and the community are relating cordially.

CEW: What advice do you have for youths in Apapa Iganmu to stay away from crime?
Apostle Unachukwu: The youths are the pillars and hope of tomorrow. My advice: come close to God, surrender to His will, avoid bad company, and say no to drugs and cultism. “It pays to serve the Lord in the days of your youth” – Lamentations 3:27, Ecclesiastes 12:1-14.

CEW: What is your assessment of the relationship between security agencies and the people in Lagos?
Apostle Unachukwu: We are not there yet, but we are not where we used to be. There is progress. Both security agencies and citizens are aligning to the rules gradually. I pray God brings us to international standards where we see each other as friends, not enemies.

CEW: What biblical principles can guide both officers and civilians in building a safer society?
Apostle Unachukwu: Safety is a two-way thing.
Officers must be sincere, truthful, honest, disciplined, just, fair and friendly – Exodus 18:17-26.
Civilians must shun evil, pursue good, and obey constituted authority – Romans 13:1-10.

CEW: What is your message to government on investing in security infrastructure and moral values?
Apostle Unachukwu: I appreciate government for their efforts and support to security agencies. I urge them to do more.

CEW: Which scripture inspires your work in ministry as it relates to peace and justice?
Apostle Unachukwu: Romans 12:18, Romans 14:19, Hebrews 12:14, James 3:18 and Matthew 5:9. God is the Judge and Prince of Peace. Anyone who follows Him must pursue peace.

CEW: Finally, what is your prayer for the Nigeria Police Force and Lagos State?
Apostle Unachukwu: Using 1 Timothy 2:1-7, I pray that the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob will keep protecting, preserving and covering officers and their families, provide their needs, grant promotions as at when due, and give them good leadership and excellent retirement. None shall die prematurely.
For Lagos State and Nigeria, I pray that God will intervene, and restore the glory of Nigeria in Jesus' name, Amen.

Conclusively, as the NPF Chaplaincy clocks 20 years, its impact is clear: beyond enforcement, there must be spiritual covering, moral instruction and community trust.

Apostle Unachukwu's charge remains – that both officers and citizens must "bear good fruits" if Nigeria is to experience true peace and security. Christian Events Watch Magazine celebrates this milestone and prays for greater grace upon the Chaplaincy and all men and women in uniform serving our nation.

20 YEARS OF SERVICE:
NIGERIA POLICE CHAPLAINCY MIRRORS THE GOOD SAMARITAN

By CEW Magazine Correspondent

Two decades of compassion. Two decades of faith in uniform.

The 20th Anniversary of the Nigeria Police Chaplaincy celebrated at the Lord of Lords Chapel, Lagos State Police Command, was more than a ceremony. It was a living testament that the spirit of the Good Samaritan is still alive — stopping on life's roadside to bind wounds, lift the broken, and continue the journey of service.

From spiritual revival to community outreach and care for police widows, the Chaplaincy has proven that policing is not just about law enforcement, but about healing hearts and restoring hope. It is great work, made possible by authorities whom God has used to approve, sustain, and support this divine mandate within the Force.

The celebration drew men and women of God, senior officers, and stakeholders. Among the dignitaries was Obi Glad Onyema, General Overseer of New Testament Revival Ministries International — HIS ministry is popularly called "Take It By Force" — whose ministry is renowned for deliverance and testimonies.

EXCERPT: IN CONVERSATION WITH PROPHET OBI GLAD ONYEMA

Q: Sir, can you introduce yourself?

A: I am Prophet Obi Glad Onyema, General Overseer of New Testament Revival Ministries International — Take It By Force.

Q: What did you observe at today's 20th Anniversary celebration?

A: In fact, I came to celebrate the 20th Anniversary of the Nigeria Police Chaplaincy. What I observed is very impressive. It is a true replication of what the Good Samaritan did on his journey.

I saw civilian chaplains in uniform, free medical check-ups for police officers and civilians. It is exactly the kind of work worthy of emulation. The Chaplaincy is doing an exciting and impactful work in the Nigeria Police Force and in the community at large. I commend the good work of CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor.

Q: What is your message to the Nigeria Police Chaplaincy as they mark 20 years?

A: My advice is simple: continue the good work you are doing in the Nigeria Police Force and in the community. God sees what you are doing and He will continue to empower you, strengthen you, and enlarge your coast.

ABOUT THE LEADERSHIP

The national and state leadership of the Chaplaincy is steering this vision with dedication. At the helm nationally is ACP Chaplain Venerable Joshua Babajide Omoyele, while the Lagos State Command Chaplaincy is ably led by CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor.

Conclusively, twenty years on, the Nigeria Police Chaplaincy remains a beacon of light within a uniformed service. By blending spirituality, welfare, and community service, it has become the modern-day Good Samaritan — not passing by, but stopping to heal, to pray, and to serve.

As the Chaplaincy steps into its third decade, one prayer resounds: May the oil on this altar never run dry, and may the hands that serve continue to be strengthened by God.
