"A Beacon of Hope:

CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbor's
Transformative Impact on Lagos State Police Command"

As the Protestant spiritual backbone of the Lagos State Police Command, Police College Ikeja, CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbor has been a shining example of dedication, compassion, and leadership. Through his tireless efforts, he has not only won souls for Christ but also sustained and transformed Christian activities within the command. His unique approach to chaplaincy has earned him widespread recognition and admiration, particularly from the police widows he has selflessly supported.

Under CSP Ugbor's guidance, the Lagos State Police Command Chaplaincy has become a haven for spiritual growth, comfort, and solace. His commitment to providing emotional and spiritual support to police officers and their families has been unwavering. Through his initiatives, he has brought hope and joy to countless individuals, including police widows who have benefited from his kindness and generosity.

The impact of CSP Ugbor's work extends beyond the police community. His dedication to serving others has inspired many, and his legacy serves as a reminder of the importance of compassion, empathy, and kindness. As we celebrate his contributions to the Lagos State Police Command, we also acknowledge the vital role he plays in promoting spiritual growth and well-being within the force.

Rades to CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbor for his outstanding service, and may his work continue to inspire and transform lives. His commitment to winning souls, sustaining, and transforming Christian activities in the Lagos Command is a testament to his unwavering faith and dedication to serving others.

CLERIC CALLS FOR IMPROVED WELFARE FOR POLICEMEN

BERNARD TEGUNARE, Lagos.

The Presiding Bishop of the Kings in Christ Power Ministries International Bishop, (Dr) Chidi Anthony has implored the federal government to improve upon the welfare of officers and men of the Nigeria Police Force.

Bishop Chidi, a philanthropist and also President Pentecostal Ministers Forum argued that the move would enable the cops to go extra miles in putting in the best while discharging their duties.

The cleric made the appeal at the national maiden award, book launch and handing over ceremony of the outgoing national coordinator, marking the 25 year anniversary of the Christian Police Fellowship, held at the Police College, Ikeja Lagos.

He opined that the cops are not adequately remunerated and provided the necessary enabling working environment.

The Pentecostal Bishop emphasised that an improved welfare package for the policemen will definitely equate and makes them compare favourably with their counterparts across the globe.

According to the renowned clergy, security operatives require pleasurable remuneration commensurate with the nature of their duties, stressing that the task of protecting lives and properties is arduous.

The people that deserve to be treated very well are the security people because they are the ones protecting lives and properties.

So, on becoming on the federal government and the leadership of the Nigeria Police to urgently improve the welfare of the policemen. The security people should be well treated because of the nature of their job.

In addition, Bishop Chidi called on members of the public to support the police, pointing out that they deserve support and encouragement from the public.

Stressing that the Nigeria Police Force parades an array of righteous and honest officers and men, the clergy appealed to the public to change their negative perception of the cops.

"These people, whatever we can do to support them, we need to support them. In spite public perception, there are good ones among the policemen, there are good ones who are ready to serve this country with their lives, there are those ready to do the work without compromising.

"Yes, there is corruption everywhere, but there are some policemen who can resist corruption. So the public should change their perception of seeing the police as their enemy. I have interacted and discovered that there are good people in the police force and the best people you can have as a friend, some of them are in the police", he enthused.

The clergy, who was also honoured with the CPN Appreciation Award as part of highlights of the event, expressed profound appreciation for the gesture, assuring that it will spur him to continue to support the organisation.

His words, "Am very happy over the award and it is in recognition of my contributions and support to the police both at the Division, Area, State Command and Zonal levels. For them to have recognised my little efforts in supporting them, by giving me this award, I promise here that I am going to do more".

"Bishop Chidi Anthony Bags Another Award from Police: Celebrates CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbozor's 50th Birthday and Book Launch"

Bishop Chidi Anthony, a beacon of hope and positivity, has once again been recognized for his outstanding contributions to the police community. He has been honored as the Patron of Lagos State Police Command Protestant Chaplaincy, a testament to his dedication to supporting and uplifting the police. Today, he joins us to celebrate CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbozor's 50th birthday and book launch, "Chaplaincy as a Ministry".

Bishop Chidi's Perspective on the Nigeria Police

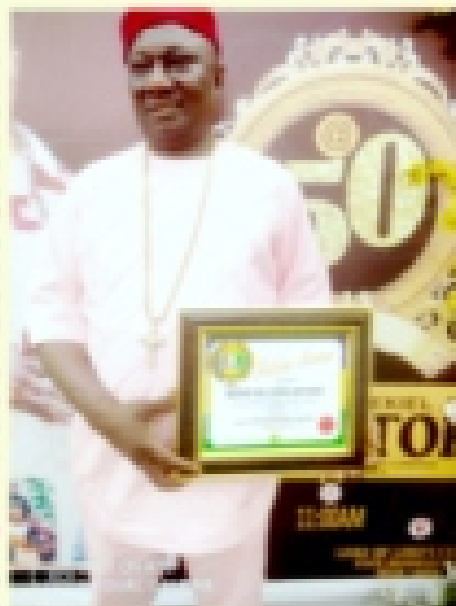

Bishop Chidi Anthony commends the Nigeria Police for their good work, citing examples of dedicated and honest officers like AO Adigboke, who refused a bribe worth thousands of dollars. He emphasizes that we should appreciate and encourage the good work of most police officers, rather than generalizing based on the actions of a few.

CSP Ugbozor's Performance

Bishop Chidi praises CSP Ugbozor's dedication to his work, describing him as a man called by God. He commends Ugbozor's performance as a chaplain and encourages him to continue his good works, bettering the lives of people.

Advice to Civilian Chaplains

Bishop Chidi advises civilian chaplains to seek guidance from experienced mentors like CSP Ugbozor, emphasizing the importance of mentorship and humility in effective ministry.

Conclusion

As we celebrate CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbozor's life and ministry, we're reminded of the importance of faith, service, and recognition of good work. Bishop Chidi's words of encouragement and advice serve as a reminder of the impact that dedicated individuals can have on their communities. We pray that God continues to bless and use CSP Ugbozor and other dedicated servants of God for His glory. Congratulations to Bishop Chidi Anthony on his well-deserved award!

"A Vessel of Honor: CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor's 50th Birthday and Book Launch Celebrated"

Engineer Robert Nwachi, a respected figure in the shipping industry, has expressed his admiration for the Nigeria Police, highlighting their crucial role in maintaining law and order. On a special occasion, he joins CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor, Lagos State Police Command Protestant Chaplain, in celebrating his 50th birthday and book launch.

Appreciation for Police Work

Engineer Robert Nwachi commends the police for their dedication to duty, citing their enforcement of court orders and maintenance of peace in the community. He believes that the police are doing their best, despite a few bad apples, and deserve support and recognition.

Congratulations to CSP Ugbotor

Engineer Robert Nwachi congratulates CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor on his 50th birthday and book launch, praising his humility, principle-driven leadership, and selfless service to the police community and beyond. He encourages CSP Ugbotor to continue his good work, supporting the police, community, and less-privileged.

Support for CSP Ugbotor's Initiatives

Engineer Robert Nwachi pledges support for CSP Ugbotor's initiatives, emphasizing the importance of collective efforts in making a greater impact. He believes that CSP Ugbotor's work is worth recognizing and supporting.

Advice to CSP Ugbotor

Engineer Robert Nwachi advises CSP Ugbotor to maintain his humility, which has been the foundation of his success. He encourages him to continue serving God and humanity with humility. Wishes for CSP Ugbotor

Engineer Robert Nwachi wishes CSP Ugbotor long life, good health, and more wisdom, praying that God continues to bless and use him for His glory.

Conclusion

The dual celebration of CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor's 50th birthday and book launch, and Engineer Robert Nwachi's recognition of police work, highlights the importance of service, humility, and collective efforts in making a positive impact in society.

"A Transformational Journey: An Exclusive Interview with CSP Ezekiel Ugbator"

In a heartwarming display of kindness and compassion, CSP Ezekiel Ugbator, the Lagos State Police Command Chaplain and Police College Ikeja, has been making a significant impact on the lives of police officers and civilians alike. With six to seven years of service in the Lagos State Police Command, CSP Ugbator has been instrumental in repositioning the mindset of police officers and promoting spiritual growth. In this exclusive interview with CSP Ugbator, he shares his transformational journey and the impact he's made so far.

Q: Can you introduce yourself and share your experience in Lagos State Police Command and Police College?

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator: I am CSP Ezekiel Ugbator, the Command Chaplain, Lagos State Police Command and Police College Ikeja. By the grace of God, I've been serving in this command for six to seven years, focusing on spiritual growth and transformation. The Inspector General of Police has graciously sent me to Lagos State Police Command and Police College to come and make an impact in the transformation and repositioning of the mindset of our police officers in the discharge of their duties.

Q: What impact have you made in the lives of police officers and civilians?

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator: We've built chapels in various police formations, provided spiritual support, and organized programs for police widows and children. We've also partnered with civilians and other chaplaincy groups to make a broader impact. God has been so faithful that He has raised partners for us who have been supporting us.

Q: Can you elaborate on the chapels you've built and the support you've received?

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator: We've built five chapels, including the ones at Trinity Division and Her Cinema. These chapels were built through the support of partners who share our vision. We've also renovated the Lord of Lords chapel, which serves as the headquarters for other chapels. At least, I have personally commissioned up to five chapels built under our watch.

Q: How did you transform the Lord of Lords chapel?

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator: We renovated the roof, ceiling, and replaced the plastic chairs with modern lounge chairs. We also acquired modern musical apparatus and a generator, thanks to the support of our partners, including Members of the Nigerian Ministry and Church of Christ. The then Commissioner of Police, now AGI Zone 1, AGI Modupe Adigun, graciously accepted our request and re-modelled the chapel.

Q: What's your relationship like with civilian chaplaincy groups?

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator: We maintain good relationships with civilian chaplaincy groups, and they partner with us in our ministry. We encourage them to share our vision and support our efforts. Chaplaincy is not just for the police; it's also for civilians. We believe in working together to make a broader impact.

Q: Can you describe your relationship with the Christian Police Fellowship of Nigeria (CPFN)?

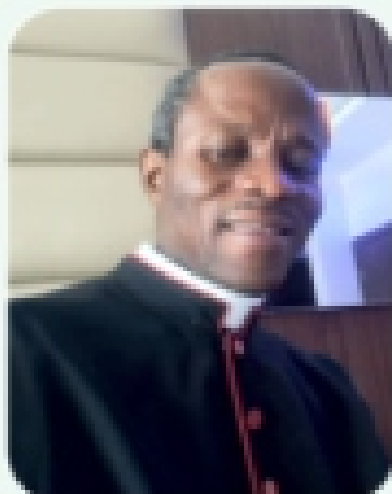

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator: CPFN is the vanguard arm of the chaplaincy, and we have a robust relationship with them. We work together to achieve our goals and make a greater impact for God. They're the people who prayed for the establishment of the chaplaincy, and we're grateful for their support.

Q: How do you maintain inter-chaplaincy tolerance with other chaplaincies in the Nigeria Police Force?

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator: We work together with Catholic, Islam, and Protestant chaplaincies, united in our purpose and vision. We encourage and support each other, focusing on achieving our goals and moving the Nigeria Police Force forward. We have no reason to divide ourselves; we're working towards the same purpose.

Conclusion

CSP Ezekiel Ugbator's transformational journey as Lagos State Police Command Chaplain and Police College Ikeja is a testament to his commitment to serving others and promoting spiritual growth. His efforts have made a significant impact on the lives of police officers and civilians, and his legacy continues to inspire others. We're grateful for his service and look forward to seeing the continued impact of chaplaincy.

"A Legacy of Faith and Service: Celebrating CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor's 50th Birthday and Book Launch"

Lagos has left a lasting impression. Wherever he's posted, he gathers police stakeholders and eminent personalities to work together for the growth of the kingdom and humanity. His work in Lagos is a testament to his dedication and passion.
CSP Ugbotor's Relationship with Police Officers

Chaplain Ugbotor's ability to build strong relationships with Commissioners of Police and stakeholders is remarkable. His leadership and initiative in gathering police stakeholders to promote the kingdom and humanity have earned him recognition and respect.

Appreciation for Supporters

I extend my heartfelt appreciation to the civilian chaplains, stakeholders, and eminent personalities supporting Chaplain Ugbotor's Good Samaritan works. Their contributions are invaluable, and I'm confident that Heaven is rewarding their efforts.

Today, we gather to honor a remarkable individual, CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor, as he celebrates his 50th birthday and book launch. As a dedicated servant of God and a chaplain in the Nigeria Police Force, Chaplain Ugbotor has made a lasting impact on the lives of many.

A Celebration of CSP Ugbotor

I'm Omeyele Joshua, a police officer and Nigeria Police Force Chaplain, and I'm honored to share my thoughts on CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor. As a fellow chaplain, I've witnessed Chaplain Ugbotor's unwavering commitment to spreading the gospel and promoting humanity.

Wishes for CSP Ugbotor

On his 50th birthday, I pray that God continues to sustain, strengthen, and use him for great work in the Nigeria Police Force and beyond. I counsel him to remain steadfast in his faith, and I'm confident that he'll continue to positively impact lives.

She shares a personal experience where Chaplain Ugbotor showed remarkable support during a difficult time, traveling from Lagos to Benin City to pay his condolences. "He is a nice person that one needs to associate with. He did something to me earlier this year when I lost my immediate elder brother. He took all the way from Lagos to Benin City to honour me, when I see him in the field on that day of service of song, I marveled."

The Book: "Chaplaincy as a Ministry"

Ehiliz praises CSP Ugbotor's book, "Chaplaincy as a Ministry", for its insightful exploration of the role of chaplaincy in serving others. She notes that the book highlights the importance of recognizing chaplaincy as a ministry, beyond the just a title. "The book is telling us that some of us are doing the work of chaplaincy, seeing chaplaincy as a ministry... The book has to explain the chaplaincy more deeply, than what chaplaincy mean to an ordinary person."

Advice to CSP Ugbotor

Ehiliz advises CSP Ugbotor to continue his good works, serving others with kindness and compassion. "Whoever is doing well should continue his good works, he is a nice man, and he should keep doing the good work. Even when Police authorities transfer him from Lagos, he should continue his good works. Carrying the people along."

Conclusion

As CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbotor celebrates his 50th birthday and book launch, Ehiliz's congratulations serve as a testament to his impact on others. May CSP Ugbotor continue to inspire others through his service and compassion.

In a heartwarming display of brotherly love and admiration, Hon. Mike Nmoka from Igbanke town Orishanmwon Local Government Area, a respected leader from Edo State, shares his thoughts on his younger brother, CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbator's, remarkable journey. As Chaplain Ugbator celebrates his 50th birthday and book launch, Hon. Nmoka reflects on his brother's humble beginnings, his growth, and his achievements.

"A Brother's Reflection"

Hon. Nmoka fondly remembers Chaplain Ugbator's growth, describing him as humble, respectful, and hardworking. He mentioned Chaplain Ugbator, witnessing his transformation from a young man to a dedicated police officer and community leader. "Ezekiel is popularly called Chuke, he is a very humble human being, very respectful, and when he joined the police, we were very much curious, because of his humility. But like everything that has life, God's destiny led him to the ministry, the religious arm of the Police Force."

Chaplain Ugbator's Achievements

Hon. Nmoka is proud of Chaplain Ugbator's achievements, particularly his success in the police force and his commitment to community service. "He has excelled to the level which he is today. He has excelled, and we are very proud of him. He is also a community leader; he attends all community programs in Lagos, even at home, and he is the chairman of my town security vigilant group in my community Igbanke."

Advice to Chaplain Ugbator

Given the caliber of personalities attending the celebration, Hon. Nmoka believes Chaplain Ugbator's future is bright. "When I see the caliber of personalities that graced the occasion today, I will begin to wonder the kind of connection, the kind of responsibilities, the kind of believability, trust that people have for him. We have no iota of doubt that he will not get to the zenith of his profession, God willing."

Wishes for Chaplain Ugbator and Family

Hon. Nmoka wishes Chaplain Ugbator and his family continued blessings, multiplication, and success. "My wish for him and his family is that God will continue to bless him and his family, multiply him, and use him to do great heights for several people. So that the blessings of God will continue to multiply through him in every fold."

Conclusion

As Chaplain Ugbator celebrates this milestone, Hon. Nmoka's words of encouragement and pride serve as a reminder of the impact one person can have on their community and beyond. We join Hon. Nmoka in congratulating Chaplain Ugbator and wishing him many more years of service to God and humanity.

"Serving God and Country: An Exclusive Interview with Pastor DSP Olugbenga David Egbunisola"

Met Pastor DSP Pastor DSP Olugbenga David Egbunsole, a dedicated servant of God and a pillar of the Nigeria Police Force. As the National General Secretary of the Christian Police Fellowship of Nigeria (CPFN) and Assembly Chaplain of Police College Ikerja, Lagos, Pastor Olugbenga has spent 25 years spreading the message of hope and faith to his fellow officers in Police College and civilians. We sat down with him to discuss his journey, his new book, "Christian Police Prevailing Strategies in Economic Hardship," and his vision for CPFN.

Q: Pastor DNP Okagbena David Egunola, congratulations on your 25 years of ministry with OPFM in Police College and the launch of your book. Can you tell us about the significance of today's event, which also happens to be your birthday?

A) Today's event is indeed significant, marking 25 years of OPI in Police College Ikeja, the launch of my book, and my birthday. It's a triple celebration, and I'm grateful to God for His blessings and guidance throughout my ministry.

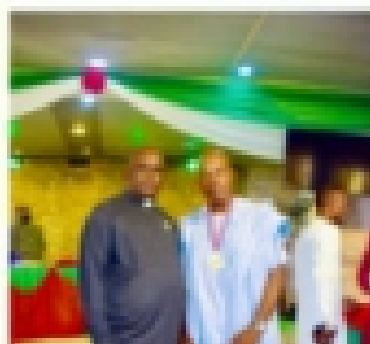

Q: Your book, "Christian Police Prevailing Strategies in Economic Hardship," is a timely release. What inspired you to write it, particularly in the face of the current economic challenges in America?

A: The economic challenges facing our country and the world at large prompted me to write this book, I wanted to encourage Christian police officers to stay committed to their faith despite the difficulties they face. The book provides strategies for prevailing in economic hardship while maintaining one's integrity and faith.

Q: What is your vision for CPHH, and how do you see the organization growing in the next five years?

Q: My vision for CPFF is to see it become a beacon of hope for Christian police officers across Nigeria. I envision us growing stronger, with more members and a greater impact on our communities. We plan to achieve this through initiatives like the Christian Police National Stakeholders Forum, which will bring together supporters, senior police officers, and civilians to encourage and facilitate growth within the fellowship.

Q: You've been recognized by Christian Events Watch magazine with the award "The Effervescent God's General and Life Pillar of Kingdom Development." How does it feel to receive this award, and what will it spur you to do?

A: I'm delighted and humbled to receive this award. It's a recognition of God's work through me, and I'm grateful to Christian Events Watch magazine for this honor. This award will encourage me to do more good things, serve God more, and spread the message of hope and faith to more people.

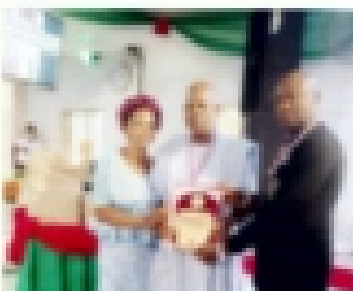

Yes, there have been challenges, but with prayer, faith, and God's intervention, I've been able to surmount them. I've learned to trust in God's plan and timing, and He's always been faithful to guide me through difficult times.

Q: What advice would you give to young police officers who are struggling to balance their faith with their duties?

A: My advice would be to fear God and prioritize their faith. I've seen many officers who have successfully balanced their faith with their duties, and I'm living proof that it's possible. With God's guidance and support, young officers can navigate the challenges of their job while staying committed to their faith.

Q: You've brought together other sister fellowships like the Nigeria Military Fellowship. Why is it important to unite with other law enforcement agencies in Christian fellowships?

A: As law enforcement agencies, we face common challenges and enemies. By uniting in Christian fellowships, we can support one another, share our experiences, and tackle these challenges together. It's essential for us to stand together as one body in Christ, regardless of our agencies or backgrounds.

Q: On your birthday, what are your desires, and how do you plan to celebrate this special day?

A: My birthday desire is to be financially supportive to the less privileged, so that they can also experience God's blessings through me. I plan to celebrate this day by reaching out to those in need and sharing God's love with them.

Conclusion:

Pastor DDP Oluhenga David Egbunisola's story is a testament to the power of faith and dedication. Through his ministry with CPFA, he has inspired countless Christian police officers to stay committed to their faith while serving their country. His new book, "Christian Police Prevailing Strategies in Economic Hardship," is a valuable resource for anyone facing challenges in their walk with God. With the award conferred on him by Christian Events Watch magazine, Pastor David's impact will undoubtedly continue to grow, inspiring many more to join the fellowship and serve God with passion and purpose.

Dr. Ndabandwe Ndabandwe Aperiende

(The Jones, Lagos state)

Dr. Ndabandwe Ndabandwe Aperiende is a Canada based Minister of God, has charmed most church members for providing themselves as Lord's chosen servants whereas they were not but called into ministry "by their stomachs"

In a chat with him, the minister of God who had spent 12 years living off the shores of Nigeria said the development was responsible for the proliferation of churches in the country with most of them engaging in fake miracles.

He is the founder and General Overseer of his Canada based church known as Bethel Outreach God time Message Tabernacle in Brampton (Ontario)

With visible expression of humility and Godliness ruling his life and ministry, Dr. Ndabandwe is in the country to plead for a leveled property to establish a Theological institution to replicate the one already established in Canada described the current situation as unfortunate pointing out that emphasis should be on miracles at this juncture.

God does not make mistakes when he is choosing his servants. When he calls you, he does so for a special purpose and mostly to redeem people from their sinful ways", the ministry of God stressed, adding that he disengages you from worldly affairs to work for that purpose he wanted to use you".

Speaking on his journey to the ministry, he said it was a battle between him and his late mother who had first sent to him through a sister that he would end up as his servant.

"Imagine me at the age of 12, I had never explored going to a party or clubbing. I was doing just books reading all the way and messages were coming that I will become a minister of God", said Dr. Ndabandwe who prides himself with 7 Wills in different fields.

"My mother told me that in a vision, the Lord told her that I will become a big pastor somewhere and I said to her, that is not the Lord, you only had a dream because, I have never enjoyed my youth, I have not had my Commission, my Ministers, he would fight and fight me and even when I brought home a pair of (Sukewas) shoes and returned home, she broke the bottles with the content saying it's not in this house that you will take abode"

Speaking on other occasions that God gave messages relating to his calling, the minister of God remembered a particular time when an Okrika woman he wanted to marry told him that the Lord showed her that he would become a pastor.

"Real pastors aren't called by God, but by their stomachs" - Dr. Ndabandwe Ndabandwe Aperiende, a Canada-based minister, speaks out against fake miracles and materialism in most Nigerian churches

Two occasions, he said included when was invited to a church in Atlanta (Georgia) to deliver a sermon and on arriving at the church the female leader of the church surprisingly on citing him exclaimed that "this is the one that we have been waiting for"

According to Dr. Ndabandwe, he did not immediately understand what she meant with the woman revealed in a vision that the Lord had chosen him to become one of his ministers. He said a similar vision was also given to him when he flew down to West Hartford from Atlanta.

But the day I finally accepted the Lord was when I finally did the word of 4 all, I had money in my pocket, about 1,000 US Dollars. I went to a shop called Harbath's, an exclusive shop for brand names in New York, I never saw myself to be a shopaholic because I was well raised and well schooled.

When you go to Harbath's, you will see a rack of 10,000 Dollars on sale and mark down to 4,000 Dollars. Then you may see shoes worth 1,000 Dollars marked down to 300 dollars for what I did because I couldn't afford to pay that expensive price, I took the tag on the low price and wrapped it with the tag on the expensive material I picked, I did not know the camera had captured it".

He said he was later approached by the security personnel on guard outside to their office, where they played the video. "I saw myself wrapping the tags, if there was a hole around that day I would have jumped into it, I said (to the police), I am sorry and I went down embarrassed begging, he added.

To convince them that he did not come to steal intentionally but he was influenced by the devil, Dr. Ndabandwe said he brought out the money in his pocket, he also told them that he had more than that but he could not explain why the incident happened.

"I don't know what led me into it but I told them that the devil led me into it and I profusely apologized. Then they took the clothes from me and warned that I should not visit the shop again in the next three months otherwise, I would be arrested. That was the day I walked on the floor, cried and the Lord forgave me and it was at that point that the calling started.

I am not ashamed to talk about it because it will help to save lives of those who had done so those with the tendency to do it so that they can repent and allow the Lord to come into their lives. I know many pastors would not be told to say this to the public, they will be ashamed to do so, but when you are truly called and you fear and accept the Lord Jesus Christ as your saviour, you have to testify to the glory of God that all the bad things you have done, you do not do them again. To that extent you can encourage people who have worst cases to give their lives to Christ and his kingdom, he said with great confidence. Formerly an Assistant Pastor in the Chapel of Glory, United States provided over by a senior pastor whose name he gave as Theodorius, Dr. Ndabandwe said his "constant visit to Nigeria is to raise a branch of the church in Nigeria".

"I will be in transition in the next four years before coming home permanently but the first thing I taught to do is investment, so that my old age will not be back to work, struggling all over again" he noted.

A GOOD SAMARITAN IN UNIFORM: CELEBRATING CSP EZEKIEL UGBATOR'S LIFE OF SERVICE AND MINISTRY

Pastor Nwankeo Kingsley Chiemeka celebrates CSP Ezekiel Ugbator, a dedicated chaplain whose unwavering commitment to serving others has touched countless lives. As we mark his 50th birthday and the launch of his book, "Chaplaincy as a Ministry," Pastor Nwankeo shares his insights and admiration for CSP Ugbator's remarkable work.

Q: Pastor Nwankeo, you're among the esteemed guests celebrating CSP Ezekiel Ugbator's 50th birthday and book launch. Can you introduce yourself and share your feelings about the award conferred upon you today?

A: Thank you for having me, I'm Pastor Nwankeo Kingsley Chiemeka, and I'm honored to be part of this celebration. I feel grateful and my heart is full of joy seeing so many people gathered to celebrate CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbator, a great man. I appreciate the award conferred on me today; it will motivate me to continue doing more for humanity.

Q: That's wonderful! Can you tell us about the ways you've been supporting CSP Chaplain Ugbator's work that might have attracted this award?

A: While I couldn't specify particular instances, I've always answered the call to support humanitarian causes. I'll continue to contribute to meaningful initiatives and render more support to humanity.

Q: That's commendable. How would you describe the qualities of CSP Chaplain Ezekiel Ugbator, the celebrant?

A: CSP Chaplain Ugbator is a great man, a man of honor, and a man of integrity. I hold him in high esteem and love him like a father. When you see him, you see greatness, honesty, and transparency. I really appreciate him.

Q: Some Nigerians might have negative perceptions about police officers. What advice would you give to them based on your experience with Chaplain Ugbator and other godly police officers?

A: People have different opinions, and those far from the truth might say anything based on their perspectives. However, when you come close to the police, you'll see many great and godly officers like Chaplain Ugbator, who are transparent and dedicated to their duties. People around can testify to the great work he's been doing. I encourage people not to judge based on hearsay but to verify information and make informed judgments.

Q: That's wise counsel. What message would you like to convey to CSP Chaplain Ugbator as he celebrates his 50th birthday and launches his book, "Chaplaincy as a Ministry"?

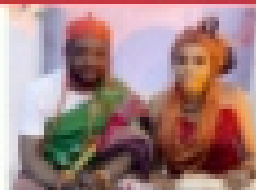

A: I want to congratulate him and wish him more great years, prosperity, and long life in good health. I encourage him to continue his good work, knowing that God sees everything he does and will reward him. God is the rewarder of good works, and I believe He will bless him abundantly.

Q: Finally, what do you hope CSP Chaplain Ugbator's legacy will be, and how do you see his book impacting the world?

A: I hope his legacy will be one of compassion, kindness, and service to humanity. His book, "Chaplaincy as a Ministry," will undoubtedly inspire many to follow in his footsteps and make a positive impact in their communities. I'm confident that his work will continue to touch lives and bring glory to God.

"LOVE BLOOMS IN OTA: Sarah China and Friday Ogah Seal Their Love with Joy and Tradition!"

WEDDING CELEBRATION

The union between Sarah China, a dedicated teacher at Lagos Group of Schools, and Friday Ogah, an Engineer from Edo State, was joyfully celebrated on Saturday, June 14, 2025, in Ota, Ogun State.

A Union of Love and Culture

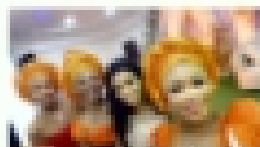

The ceremony was a beautiful blend of cultures, with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos China, lavishing love and blessings upon their daughter. The bridal train was stunning, featuring beautiful maidens adorned in both Edo and Igbo cultural attire.

Wishing the Newlyweds Happiness

As Sarah and Friday embark on this new chapter in their lives, we wish them a lifetime of love, laughter, and adventure together! May their bond grow stronger with each passing day, and may their love continue to be the guiding force in their lives.

Also, the proprietor of Lagos group of schools who chaired the occasion and his beautiful wife advised the couple to be the best in marriage.

Congratulations to the Ogah Family.

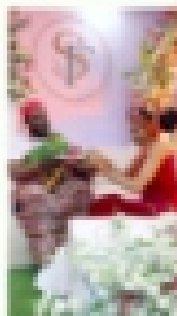

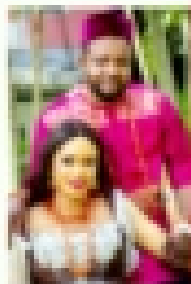

The Ogah family was overjoyed to welcome Sarah into their fold, impressed by the rich cultural activities that heralded the union. We join them in wishing the newlyweds a happy, fulfilling married life.

May Their Love Forever Flourish!

"May your love story be the stuff of fairy tales, filled with laughter, tears of joy, and a lifetime of happiness together! Congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Ogah!"
